AMERICANS MAY FIGHT IN ITALY

Austro-German Force Debouching from the Trentino Prevents a Stand.

WITHDRAW TO THE ADIGE

Premier Painleve Returns Expressing Hope of Victory for the Allies.

On the Italian front the Italian line in the north has stiffened under the reinforcements it has received from the British and French. Even the German official communication does not mention any further retirement by the Italians but admits that east of Asiago, where the Austrians made gains last week, the Italians in strong force attacked the invaders and recaptured lost positions.

In the Sugana valley an enemy advance guard was captured.

Renewal to-night of a heavy down pour of rain will swell the Livenza and other streams fed from the mountains increasing the difficulties of bringing forward heavy artillery over roads and fields in mud.

Every day that passes and every mile that is covered the enemy becomes wearier and is faced with greater determination by the Italians.

The Austro-Germans continue their plan of advancing with their right wing evidently still hoping to envelope the center of the Italian rear guard and eventually cut off the right wing of the retiring main body.

Premier Painleve has returned to Paris from his visit with French and British officials to the Italian front and expressed unwavering confidence in the victory of the forces of freedom.

A meeting of the war council was held yesterday at 5 o'clock and the cabinet was in session from 6:30 until 8. After the cabinet meeting, a semi-official note was issued, confirming the news of the establishment of a permanent inter-allied staff under General Foch, Wilson and Cadorna, to sit at Versailles.

MORE REINFORCEMENTS.

The Matin says it was decided at the conference in Italy that France and Great Britain would equally increase the armed support already given to Italy. The United States have also been considered in planning for future co-operation.

"It has been proposed," the Matin says, "that the Italian withdrawal would end at the Piave river, but that now is impossible, inasmuch as the invaders by debouching from the Trentino will compel the Italian army to withdraw at least to the Adige line. This plan, which General Foch approves, is to be put into effect, and it is probable that if the Italian troops continue to display satisfactory morale the Adige positions will permit the offering of sufficient resistance."

CONTEST IS TALKED OF

Democrats Hold a Meeting And Preliminary Steps Are Taken.

The Democratic mass meeting held at the court house Saturday night was presided over by Chairman Pettus White. The meeting was well attended and short talks were made by Vego Barnes, Eugene Kelly, Walton Garrott, Colonel Wilson, of Gracey, M. L. Elb, Jno. B. Chilton, L. E. Foster and David Smith.

After the discussion of the advisability of contesting the election a committee was named to investigate the election in each precinct and furnish information upon which a decision will be reached.

FIX SIZE OF BREAD LOAVES

Must Be Baked in Four Sizes In Multiples of One Lb., is Hoover's Order.

WILL TAKE EFFECT DEC. 10

Amount of Sugar Allowed for Barrel of Flour Will Be Cut in Two by Rule.

Washington, Nov. 12.—Definite steps to standardize bread and lower its price will be taken to-morrow when President Wilson issues a proclamation placing all bakeries under government license Dec. 10 and subjecting them to food administration rules prescribing ingredients and weight of loaves.

Prices will not be fixed but with the standardization it is expected that natural competition and simplification of distribution will force down prices to seven or eight cents. The bakers produce about 40 per cent. of the country's bread.

Fancy breads will be eliminated and the multitude of sizes now produced will be reduced to four with standard ingredients. The weights will be one, one and a half, two and four pounds. The loaves will have a crease in the middle to permit their sale in halves.

In baking, only three pounds of sugar will be allowed for a barrel of flour, instead of an average of six pounds now used, and two pounds of vegetable oil shortening must be used, instead of six pounds of lard or oil.

The food administration expects to save 100,000,000 pounds of sugar and the same amount of lard in this way. Bakers may use only skimmed milk, for bread and rolls will be permitted only if made in standard sizes and of regulation bread dough.

RICHARDS OUT DALTON IN

Change in the Secretary of the Hopkinsville B. M. A.

The resignation of John W. Richards as secretary of the Hopkinsville Business Men's Association was tendered at a meeting of the directors Friday night and the vacancy was filled by the election of Garner Dalton. Mr. Richards will engage in other business. He had been secretary for several years and much of the success of the H. B. M. A. was due to his efforts. Mr. Dalton has been acting as an assistant for several weeks, practically in charge, and has evinced a fitness and capacity for the work that promises much for the future. He is widely acquainted over the state, active, intelligent and enthusiastic and will make a popular man in the place.

Of the 275 new auto licenses issued last week, these are of local interest: McCord Bros., Hopkinsville, Ford. C. W. Keatts, Herndon, Ford. W. J. Dickinson, Trenton, Buick. There were 125 Fords, 29 Chevrolts, 9 Buicks and 9 Maxwells in the list.

New President.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12.—Dr. J. S. Lock, of Maysville, was elected president of the Kentucky State Medical Association. The next meeting will be held at Ashland next fall.

ABANDON WIDE BRIM HATS

American Troops in Trenches Adopt Headgear On French Army Mode.

American Training Camp in France Nov. 12.—The wide-brimmed campaign hats have been abandoned by the United States army for troops actually in the field. In their place hats like the fatigue headgear of the French army have been adopted. Numbers of them have been purchased and hurried to the troops now in the trenches.

The new hat is a sort of fore and aft arrangement made by sewing two heavy pieces of khaki cloth together with the seams front and back and adding to the sides other pieces of material which fold up on the side of the hat or may be drawn down to cover the ears. The hat is most comfortable. It can also be rolled up to pocket size or worn under shrapnel helmets.

The old campaign hat to fold was cumbersome for troops in the field. It was so unwieldy that some of the troops discarded it entirely when they were changing to the shrapnel helmet.

The campaign hat is still worn at billets and in barracks, but many officers are recommending its complete abandonment on the ground that it was designed for service in tropical climates and suited for operations under present conditions.

GROWERS REFUSE BIG PRICES

McLean County Growers Turn Down Fancy Offers For Weed In Barn.

Seabee, Nov. 12.—Tobacco buyers representing Trogen & Malone, a South Carolina firm, which recently bought a loose leaf floor at Owensboro, have been in the Beech Grove section this week looking over the tobacco crop. They have offered some fancy prices and bought the crop of Laurie Dent, near Wrightsburg, at $18 per hundred. They freely offered $15 per hundred, but the farmers refused to sell.

Madisonville Beauty to Wed.

Madisonville, Ky., Nov. 12.—Mr. and Mrs. Joel D. McPherson have announced the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Louise Young, to Mr. John Atkinson Moore. The wedding will take place in the early winter.

The bride-to-be is a niece of the McPherson brothers of this city, and is one of the prettiest girls in Western Kentucky.

STROUBE--ROLL

Gallant Young Officer In M. R. C. Weds South Christian Belle.

First Lieut. Stanley Stroube, of the Medical Reserve Corps, stationed at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., was married Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock to Miss Sarah Rollow, of Kennedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Rollow. The wedding occurred at the bride's home and Rev. Geo. C. Abbot, of Grace Episcopal church, officiated. It was a quiet home wedding with only a few close friends present.

The bride wore a blue traveling suit and the groom was attired in the khaki uniform of the army. Dr. Stroube volunteered his services on the declaration of war and has been commissioned as first lieutenant. He is the oldest son of Mrs. Kate Stroube. His father was the late W. A. Stroube, of Oak Grove. The bride is one of South Christian's prettiest and most accomplished girls. They left at once for Camp Greenleaf, near Ft. Oglethorpe, where Dr. Stroube is on duty.

NEW DRAFT ARRANGED FOR

Registrants to Be Divided into Five Classes in Order of Eligibility.

NEXT CALL IN FEBRUARY

Questionnaire will Give All Information Regarding Each of 9,000,000 Men.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Wilson has formally put the new machinery for the carrying out of the selective draft bill into operation with the publication of the foreword he has written to the regulations under which the second call will be made. The regulations themselves and the questionnaires which more than 9,000,000 registrants will be required to fill out are being forwarded to the local boards, but have not yet been made known.

War department officials estimate that the whole process can be completed within sixty days. This means that no second call will be made upon the draft forces before the middle of next February, as the period of classification will not begin until December 15.

INTO FIVE CLASSES.

The President describes the new plan of dividing all registered men not already mobilized into five classes subject to military service by classes, as being intended to produce "a more perfect organization of our man power."

"The selective principle must be carried to its logical conclusion," the President said, and he added that there must be a complete inventory of the qualifications of each registrant in order to determine "the place in the military, industrial or agricultural ranks of the nation in which his experience and training can best be made to serve the common good."

NONOGENARIAN PASSES AWAY

Long Life of Mrs. Mariah Henderson is Ended By Death.

Mrs. Mariah Henderson died Saturday at her home in the Bowen's Chapel neighborhood, about fifteen miles northeast of the city. She was probably the oldest person in that section, being 93 years of age. Mrs. Henderson was a much esteemed lady and leaves a host of friends. Rev. T. T. Powell conducted her funeral services Sunday afternoon and the interment took place in the family burying ground.

GRAND QUARTETTE

Will Open The Lyceum Season Thursday Night at Tabernacle.

The Metropolitan Grand Quartette will open the Lyceum season at the tabernacle next Thursday night. The personnel includes Fenwick A. Newell, lyric tenor; Paul L. Chase, robust tenor; John Eberly, baritone, and A. S. Cowperthwaite, basso profundo.

Mr. Chase is personally known here and has many friends.

This will be the first of a series of five high class musical entertainments throughout the winter. The Grand Quartette is one of the best of them it will be a treat to music lovers.

Death Of Colored Minister.

Rev. G. W. Lander, col., died in the city Nov. 8. Death was due to catarrh of the stomach. He was 66 years old.

KERENSKY ON TOP AGAIN

At Head of Loyal Army of 200,000 Is Approaching Petrograd.

BOLSHEVIKI TO COLLAPSE

Revolutionists Have Been Defeated in Moscow and Tsarskoe-Selo Reported.

A wireless dispatch from Haparanda, in Sweden, near the Finnish border, says that Premier Kerensky has 200,000 men supporting him.

The wireless message, which escaped the censorship of the Bolsheviks by being sent from Haparanda, says Premier Kerensky left Petrograd on Tuesday night for general headquarters, being concealed in the bottom of an automobile ambulance. It is understood he was accompanied by Gen. Alexieff, former commander in chief, and by Foreign Minister Terestchenko.

The ambulances were stopped three times by Maximist patrols as it was leaving the city.

Regiments loyal to Premier Kerensky are marching on the capitol and fighting is in progress in the city, according to reports reaching here from Petrograd, an organization which has adopted the name of "the All Russian Committee for Saving the Country and Revolution," announced the defeat of the Bolshevik movement was only a matter of days or hours.

The town of Tsarskoe-Selo, fifteen miles south of Petrograd, where former Emperor Nicholas lived much of the time, is said to have been captured by the loyal forces, after which the rebels retired to Petrograd in disorderly mobs. The wireless station is now controlled by loyal troops.

The Red guard has been defeated in Moscow. Premier Kerensky is said to be approaching Petrograd.

The following was received today by wireless from Russia:

"To all army organizations: The revolt against the Bolsheviks is increasing in Petrograd. Today open attacks against them began and fusillades are taking place in some places. The telephone is in the hands of the junkers. The Dowmin was occupied by the general army, which has removed the Bolshevik guards."

"Premier Kerensky will approach Petrograd toward evening. Communication with him has been established. Victory for the Kerensky adventure is only a matter of days or hours."

CERTIFICATE TO H. WOOD, JR.

Election Board Accepts The Corrected Certificate In No. 1.

An amended certificate reversing the vote of Hopkinsville No. 1 in the election of police court judge was accepted by the election board Saturday, which action made a change of 56 votes in favor of Judge Hunter Wood, Jr., electing him over L. K. Wood by 9 votes. All four of the precinct officers signed the corrected certificate. The mandamus suit to compel the officers to correct the vote was withdrawn and the vote was counted 799 for Hunter Wood and 790 for L. K. Wood, who accepted the result. The election is for 2 years. The canvass of the county returns will be completed to-day.

Drafted Man Suicides.

Winchester, Nov. 12.—Ernest Chaborn Lisle, member of one of the most prominent families here, died from a dose of poison. He had been despondent. Recently he was drafted for army service and refused to plead exemption. It is stated that his wife filed a petition for him.

The Republicans evidently had some deep laid plan and potential aid to elect sheriffs especially. They elected their candidates in many Dem-

the whole tickets in few exceptions were re-elected in Caldwell, Critten-treat across the Venetian plains toward the Piave river where it is expected a stand shortly will be made by them aided by large reinforcements from the British and French armies and under a newly formed military command which is to work in conjunction with a permanent interallied conference of military officers. Gen. Cadorna has been removed from supreme command on the Italian armies and given a post on the interallied conference, the other two members of which will be noted French generals, Foch and General Wilson, sub-chief of the British gen-in chief command of the Italians.

German official circles view the Russian development as temporary outbursts which are bound to react in favor of M. Kerensky. There is general satisfaction that the present Russian leaders will refuse to continue the war. It is believed in Berlin that Germany will await developments and offer Russia a separate peace on easy terms should the followers of Nikolai Lenine retain power. Contradictory reports continue to circulate as to the whereabouts of Premier Kerensky, it having been reported that he was under arrest and being taken back to Petrograd for trial by court martial, and also that he was continuing his journey toward the front in an endeavor to strengthen the morale of the troops and put down the revolt.

picking him up, she said to the father:
"I really do not know what is the matter. Joseph will be eleven months old tomorrow and he has only two teeth."
James said: "Gee, that ain't noth-

THY NEIGHBOR

By LOIS WOOD.

Linnelle moved into his bachelor apartment on the 10th of the month.
He had had a suite down at the exclusive Waltemore, on Washington square, when Alston & Co. gave him the order for a book. It was to deal with New York life on the group system, showing how the city was divided into little neighborhood villages, especially among the poor.

Young Alston had suggested that he move over to the East side and study conditions among the submerged tenth at first hand. It had not appealed to Linnelle. He was not of the tramp-poet variety. Even while he liked to be a denizen of the old Greenwich village, still his quarters were on the north side of the square. But it came to pass that he became an inmate—he would not call it resident—of the Diggs apartments.

At some time Mr. Diggs had felt the weight of millions preying upon his mind and had placed model apartments for the deserving poor in their midst on the East side.

After the third day in his new lodgings the monotony palled on him. He had prowled around the neighborhood and made the alarming discovery that instead of being in the midst of thugs and night hawks he was in the midst of highly respectable old settlers. Instead of their being peculiar to their kind, they regarded him as a rara avis.

He was buying green peppers and fresh tomatoes from the little Greek Mario at the corner and answering his questions idly, when he became aware of another customer who seemed highly amused at his inquisition.

"You stay very long?" asked Mario.
"For awhile."
"What do you do for a living?"
Write? Play the music? Paint?
Sculpt? No? Just professor, huh?"

Linnelle felt his face redden as the girl smiled.

"Must one give an excuse for living here?" he asked.

And Mario let it pass. Hearing the girl give her address for the delivery of goods, Linnelle realized that he had a neighbor. He caught one swift glance from big gray eyes that smiled at him as he passed on. When his own goods were delivered via the dumbwaiter there was another basket thereon. Just as he was starting to write down a new idea, his telephone bell started to ring. It was his neighbor.
Mario had told her he had left, her goods with Mr. Linnelle, apartment 12.
Would he be kind enough to let her have them?

Linnelle smoked savagely on his return. She had been smiling at him again in that cool, appraising, amused way. He plunged at his work with avidity, trying to banish the memory of a slim young person in a rose linen smock with curly, dark hair.

He made the discovery the next morning that from his windows on the inner court he could look over at her windows. Quite against his instinct of good taste he found himself doing so constantly. She had window boxes where spring bulbs bloomed profusely.

She came twice a day to water her plants. Then she would stand for a long while looking steadfastly up at the square patch of sky five stories above. He used to wonder if she could be a sun worshiper. The shaft of sunlight just struck her windows as it shone aslant down the court, and she drank it in even as her flowers did.

So passed the weeks and their acquaintance ripened.

His book was nearing completion toward the middle of the summer. He had dinner at a little Turkish restaurant on Twenty-sixth street. It was nearly nine when he put his passkey in the lock of his own door.

"Oh! Mr. Linnelle." It was Marjorie Fraser, her face pale and anxious.
"I wonder if I could ask you to come and look at my window. I just got home myself, and it looks as if someone had entered the apartment." Linnelle followed her down the hall.

In her little living room the scrim curtains and daffodil valance lay in a crumpled heap on the floor, the upper window pane had a round hole through its center.

"Do you think anyone is here?" she asked, standing in the doorway. For answer Linnelle glanced around quickly and picked up a baseball that had rolled under the steam heater.

"There's your burglar," he laughed and laid it on the table.

"I'll be so glad when this is over,"
she said. "I've soaked in local atmosphere until I'm sick and tired of it, and I want to go home. You see, Mr. Linnelle, I'm an actress and I have a perfectly dandy part in Carruthers' new production, 'Children of Clay.' I only came down here to live and catch the spirit of the East side. If it hadn't been for you living so near to me I'd have been scared to death."

"If it hadn't been for you living so near to me I'd have been bored to death," returned Linnelle. "Come up to the roof. I want to tell you there."
And they went on up the five flights of stairs together.

Seized Farms for Tillage.

A representative of the Irish department of agriculture visited a number of farms in County Roscommon recently and took possession of them on behalf of the department on the ground that the owners had not complied with the tillage order. In all, 1,682 acres in the occupation of six persons, were seized.—London Times.

A NERVOUS WRECK

From Three Years' Suffering. Says
Cardui Made Her Well.

Texas City, Tex.—In an interesting statement, Mrs. G. H. Schill, of this town, says: "For three years I suffered untold agony with my head. I was unable to do any of my work."

I just wanted to sleep all the time, for that was the only ease I could get, when I was asleep. I became a nervous wreck just from the awful suffering with my head.

I was so nervous that the least noise would make me jump out of my bed. I had no energy, and was unable to do anything. My son, a young boy, had to do all my household duties.

I was not able to do anything until I took Cardui. I took three bottles in all,
and it surely cured me of those awful headaches. That has been three years ago, and I know the cure is permanent, for I have never had any headache since taking Cardui.

Nothing relieved me until I took Cardui.
It did wonders for me."

Try Cardui for your troubles—made from medicinal ingredients recommended in medical books as being of benefit in female troubles, and 40 years of use has proven that the books are right. Begin taking Cardui today.

English face looks stupid, the English body angular and neat. They are loaded with queer burdens, bread and bottles bulge their pockets; their blue-gray is prettier than khaki, their round helmets are becoming.

Our Tommies, even to our own eyes, seem uniformed, but hardly two out of all this crowd are dressed alike. The French soldier luxuri-ates in extremes; he can go to his death in white gloves and dandyism —he can glory in unshavenness and patches. The words "in extremis" seem dear to the French soldier; and con amore he passes from one extreme to the other. One of them stands gazing up at the board which gives the hours of starting and the destinations of the trains. His tired face is charming, and has a look that I cannot describe—lost, as it were, to all surroundings; a Welshman or a Highlander, but no Englishman, could look like that.—John Gale-

CITY TAXES

Under Section 3400 of the Kentucky Statutes, interest at the rate of eight per centum per annum is now being added to all unpaid city taxes.
This interest has been running since October 1, 1917, on taxes for the year 1917, and if said taxes are paid now very little interest will have to be paid. On all city taxes for the year 1917, which remain unpaid on the first day of December, 1917, an additional penalty of 6 per centum will be added.

The city officials have no desire to inflict the payment of interest and penalties on the tax payers, but the law makes it my duty to collect the interest and penalty above mentioned if taxes are not paid before the dates on which said interest and penalty, under the law, are added.

Persons, firms and corporations who have not paid their city taxes are requested to settle same now and thereby escape the payment of future interest and penalty.

This October 8th, 1917.

Commissioner of Finance City of Hopkinsville, Ky.

MONEY

In every community there is enough money in hiding to start a respectable bank.

This money is not only liable to be lost by theft or fire, but it is placed where it does not bring in any income to the holder—neither is it of any use to the public.

Deposit this "dead" money with us. Then it will get into circulation and be of some bene-

The more money there is in circulation, the cheaper the rate of interest; the easier it is to

Ten Thousand Stenographers Wanted By The Government.

Nashville, Tenn., November 6, 1917. —Hon. John A. McIlhenny, President of the Civil-Service Commission, Washington, D. C., recently wrote to Draughon's College, Nashville, urging that College to help the United States Government secure more stenographers, both men and women, the Government now being in need of ten thousand stenographers and many bookkeepers at salaries ranging from one thousand dollars to twelve hundred dollars a year to begin on.

In his letter Mr. McIlhenny urges young men and women who are not trained for Government office positions to begin now to take the necessary training, as the prospect is that the demand will continue indefinitely. Draughon's Nashville College is now receiving from business men more than one hundred calls a month for bookkeepers and stenographers.

To show its patriotism, Draughon's Nashville College is offering special terms to all who desire to prepare, at college or by mail, for these good positions.—Advertisement.

WHERE?

In the field from standing stalks of a variety that has "made good" and become locally adapted.

HOW?

Pick best ears from plants showing best yields in fair competition with neighboring plants. Storm-proof plants with hanging ears give best seed. Long ears with large, uniform kernels are the best. Avoid sappy ears heavy with water.

For Further Information Ask Your County Agent, or Write for

Farmers' Bulletin 415, "Seed Corn"

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, Washington, D. C.

WHEN?

As soon as ears are ripe and hard—before heavy frosts or autumn rains injure the kernels for seed. The day the ears are selected they should be hung where they will become thoroughly dry in a few days.

WHY?

It pays. Field selection of seed corn is one of the surest and best plan operations on the farm. Proper care of seed corn pays well. Tests show that properly cared for seed corn has yielded eight bushels more per acre than seed from the same field.

WAKING UP!

By LOIS MERTON.

It was like going into a new world for Jasper Fairfax to have a vacation. For 12 years he had been cooped up in a gloomy room fronting a blind court, poring over the books of Morton & Co. His routine had never known a break. At eight in the morning he got up on his high stool, at twelve he ate a small lunch, at five in the afternoon went to a cheerless apartment in a cheap boarding house, and at nine to bed.

His salary was a liberal one, and he saved money. What he was living for except to provide for his old age, he never tried to figure out. He was shut away from the brisk, varied bustle of the counting room. Perhaps the only person he spoke to during the day was his stenographer, Miss Ethel Thorpe, who occupied a wire box of an office adjoining his own.

He spoke to her now. It was early morning, and Miss Thorpe regarded him with wonder as he appeared, the tasteful dresser complete, an entirely new Jasper Fairfax, looking more the typical business man than the desk drudge.

"I am going away, Miss Thorpe," he announced, so overwhelming an event in his life that he appreciated her startled look.

"Not—not for good?" questioned she, a quick flutter in her tones.

"I don't know," responded Jasper. "The house wishes me to look over their branch at Bolton. You see, I told them last week that I had saved up a little, and felt that I needed a rest. They seemed really anxious to keep me in their service."

"No wonder!" said Ethel.

"They asked me to visit the branch office, and offered me a larger salary if I will take charge of it. Of course that would take me away from the smoke and grime and turmoil of the city, but I've always had my ideal—a neat, pretty, country place, fresh air, running brooks, birds, sunshine, and—and—well, vegetables and flowers."

"I shall be lonely when you are gone." Her head dropped. He saw a teardrop fall, and stared. And thrilled, too!

"Well, I declare!" he exclaimed. "I never thought anybody in the world ever gave poor, humble, homely me a second thought. Oh, you won't miss me after a day or two. There'll be a new man in my place."

"It won't be you," insisted Ethel sadly. "It was you who selected me as your assistant from fifty others, and gave my wavering heart cheer and hope. You have taken time to give me advice when I needed it."

"I declare!" repeated Jasper, and he rubbed his chin reflectively.

"It makes me homesick, too, when you speak of Bolton," went on Ethel. "My mother lives only four miles out of that town. Oh, Mr. Fairfax, if you should take charge of the branch, and I could be transferred near mother!" "Say," he observed, a trifle huskily, "you cheer up, maybe I'll take that position, after all."

And so hard was it to get Ethel out of his mind, that, after Jasper had reached Bolton and inspected the plant, he looked up Mrs. Thorpe and one morning started down a quiet country road to reach the home Ethel told him about. The pretty, old-fashioned house nestled in a charming environment of garden and greenery. Mrs. Thorpe welcomed him.

"Oh, indeed, we know you, Mr. Fairfax, my son and I!" declared the widow warmly. "Scarcely a letter from the city that Ethel does not tell of all the kindness you have shown her," and there were other confidences.

A heavy rain came up, and the widow insisted that Jasper stay all night. "It's Ethel's room when she comes home for vacation," she told Jasper. As he arose next morning and found no shaving paper, he began searching about for a fragment that would do for the occasion. He opened a bureau drawer, to find it empty except for two or three letters. He selected one, and was about to tear off its second blank leaf, when he read on its reverse page:

"—and Mr. Fairfax has been so helpful to me. I am not a sentimental girl, as you know, but this big-hearted man has won my deepest respect—and more than that, yes, mother, dear, and although it will never amount to anything, I shall love him to the end."

"She don't mean me! She can't mean me!" gasped the spellbound Jasper. "But there is my name. I guess I've been asleep! Anyhow, I'll wake up, and—"

Four hours later Jasper Fairfax was on his way to the city. Ethel was astonished at the briskness with which he dashed in upon her.

"Miss Thorpe," he announced, "I've come clear back from Bolton to ask you a question."

"Yes, Mr. Fairfax," she smiled, wondering.

"Did you write that letter?" She blushed crimson as he produced the missive he had appropriated.

"Yes," she stammered, "but I think mother was meant to show it to you."

"Mother didn't," observed Jasper. "Miss Thorpe, do you mean what you say in that letter? Because, if you do, I shall take the branch at Bolton."

"Mother! what a sweet name, your mother—let us make it our mother, will you?"

His answer spoke in her shining eyes, and Jasper Fairfax drew her gently to him and kissed her.

ROAD BUILDING

MOST ECONOMICAL OF ROADS

Macadam Is Regaining Favor With Modern Builders, Who Are Now Looking at Annual Cost.

A few years ago road builders joined in a universal requiem for the old-fashioned water-bound macadam road in New York state. It served its purpose when vehicles were all horse-drawn, it was acknowledged, but with the advent of motor vehicles it was laid aside with the muzzle loaders, crinolines and other prizes of departed days. But recently the macadam road has come back again into favor. This is because road officials are now judging the cost of a road by its total annual expense, including maintenance and sinking fund. On this basis it has been discovered that a macadam road is an economical one for certain classes of travel. This was the opinion expressed at the recent meeting of the New York State association of County Highway Superintendents by many of those present.

Practically all the recent roads built by these men have two courses of broken stone, and frequently it is possible to build the roads with a lower course of cheap local stone, using the more expensive stone from a distance for the upper course only. This reduces the first cost without causing any reduction in the life and strength of the road. When they are finished they are sometimes treated at once with tar or asphalt, but usually this treatment is deferred long enough for travel over the road to reveal any weak spots, so they can be repaired before the oiling is done. It is this development of efficient and economical methods of maintenance with the help of road oils which has led to the renaissance of water-bound macadam in New York. It is one of many recent indications that where the work of maintenance is thoroughly done and cost records of it are properly kept important light is thrown on the best types of construction to carry travel of different classes and intensities.

PLAN FOR ROAD MANAGEMENT

Essential to Successful Highway Administration Outlined Briefly—Cut Out Politics.

Summarized briefly, the essentials to successful state highway administration, as demonstrated by the experience of the various state highway departments, are as follows: (a) The elimination of politics as a factor in state highway work; (b) the control by the state highway department of all work on which state funds are expended; (c) adequate appropriations for continuous maintenance of highways under efficient supervision from the day the highways are completed; (d) state supervision as to surveys, plans, and specifications of roads and bridges constructed under bond issues, and supervision of such other road and bridge work as requires considerable cash outlay and the exercise of engineering skill and knowledge.—Yearbook United States Department of Agriculture.

QUESTION OF BETTER ROADS

Poor Policy for Farmer to Refuse to Listen to Arguments for Improvement of Highways.

It wouldn't do any of us any harm to look thoroughly into the question of better roads. Don't be narrow enough to take one side of the question and refuse to listen to any facts or opinions advanced on the other side. A man told us the other day that he had been trying to talk to another man who had an entirely erroneous opinion in regard to the federal aid proposition. "He literally wouldn't listen to me," he said. "His head was so full of the wrong idea that no sound seemed able to penetrate it." To listen is not necessarily to be convinced, and to refuse to listen is to refuse to be broad minded enough to hear both sides and form a real opinion.—Twentieth Century Farmer.

Grading and Drainage.

The first step in the making of good roads is grading and draining. The next is dragging, and the next step, in most localities, as long as the cost of a good grade of asphaltic road oil remains below 6 cents a gallon, will be oiling.

Increase of Trunk Roads.

The aid now rendered by the federal government to the states will rapidly increase the proportion of good trunk roads. This co-operation is al-

WOUNDS OF HEAD NEED REST

Special Care Given to Injured Soldiers Obviates Epilepsy and Insanity—Many Recover.

Experience in this war has brought about a radical change in the treatment of wounds of the head. It is now realized that these are not usually cases requiring immediate surgery, unless there be extensive hemorrhage, and these are practically hopeless.

Special hospitals for head cases have now been established. The Journal of the American Medical Association says the standard treatment consists of a "primary cleansing of the patient as soon as possible to the hospital in which he will remain until convalescent, the making of Roentgenograms, the excision of the scalp and bone wound, a careful removal of foreign bodies, the covering of the exposed brain, the closure of the wound and prolonged rest in bed.

Dr. G. H. Makins reports to the British Medical Journal that the mortality of these cases is small, that complications, such as epilepsy and insanity, are rare and that many patients with foreign bodies deeply lodged in the brain recover.

SEEKS LIGHT WITHOUT HEAT

Biological Department of Princeton University Hopes to Fathom Mystery of Luminous Animals.

Long strides are being taken by the biological department of Princeton university to obtain light without heat, says the Electrical Experimenter. If the discovery fully realizes its expectations it will doubtless revolutionize modern lighting.

Profs. Edwin Conklin, Ulric Dahlgren and Edmund N. Harvey are working on luminous animals in an attempt to fathom the cause of their luminosity, which is 99 per cent light. Modern electric light produces only from 2 to 3 per cent light, the rest being wasted in heat.

Professor Harvey obtained a considerable quantity of the luminous material from small fish found in Japan. He has partly analyzed the substance, finding that like the proteins of the living bodies it can be kept for years by drying it and sealing it in vacuum tubes. When released, moistened and exposed to oxygen it will light into a clear, bluish phosphorescent flame.

The substance is very powerful, as it is still visible when one part of it is diluted in 1,700,000 parts of water.

WEBBED GLOVES FOR A SWIM.

How would you like to be able to swim as fast as a duck, and with as little effort, with webbed hands and feet to push your way through water? It is not at all impossible, now that Dr. A. A. Kador Zawaqski of Honolulu has invented his swimming glove. The webbed glove makes a veritable duck's foot out of the human hand. When swimming, the gloved hand is spread out at each backward stroke and closed each time the hand is drawn forward.—Popular Science Monthly.

OIL OF MUSTARD POISONS.

Dr. David I. Macht of Baltimore reports to the Journal of the American Medical Association a case of poisoning from the application of a liniment made with oil of mustard. He says oil of mustard is not only very irritating, but when absorbed into the circulation is likely to produce serious trouble in the kidneys. He says mustard plasters are for all purposes safer than any preparations containing oil of mustard.

DANVILLE, PENNA.

No one but a mother knows the terrors of croup. In the hope that other mothers will find the same relief she experienced, Mrs. Benj. Shepard, 27 Spruce St., Danville, Pa., writes—

"I have used your Vick's VapoRub Salve, and would not be without it in my house. I have tried it for spasmodic croup and it acted like a charm. My little girl breathed easier in about ten minutes after I rubbed her throat and chest with VapoRub, and she went to sleep and never woke until morning. Other times I used to have to sit up all night with her, afraid to go to bed. So I will gladly recommend it to any mothers for croup."

You just apply Vick's VapoRub Salve over throat and chest, covering with a warm flannel cloth. The body heat releases antiseptic vapors that are inhaled with each breath, loosening the phlegm. A real "Bodyguard in the home" against all cold troubles. Three sizes, 25c, and up. At all druggists.

Gossiping Over the Telephone

The Indiana public service commission has handed down a very important ruling, which sustains the right of a woman to gossip as long as she pleases over a party telephone line. T after the commission went to Whitehead, Ind., to investigate the complaint made by a telephone manager that women gossiped over his lines to the detriment of the service. To put a stop to the practice the manager threatened to make a small charge for each conversation. The threat, however, did not bluff the women. They kept right on gossiping about the cows, chickens and the baby. Finally the manager appealed to the public service commission.

A hearing was held in Whitehead. The town was full of people. It was a big day. The hearing was to have been held in the telephone office, but that was not large enough to accommodate the crowd, so it was held in the school auditorium. Testimony developed the fact that nearly all telephone holders were in favor of letting the women gossip as long as they pleased, each member of a party line being willing to take his or her chances on the use of the line. The thing they objected to was in having to pay for the conversation in addition to the regular monthly dues or rates.

It is easy to surmise what the commissioner decided to do after all the testimony was in. He said that as long as the subscribers themselves did not object to women gossiping over the party telephone lines of the company, it nor its manager had no ground for complaint. The commissioner further said:

"One of the great benefits of a modern telephone system is to bring the neighbors and people of different communities into closer association and to make communication between them easy. They should not be too much restricted as to what their conversation shall consist of over the telephone."

Metro De Luxe Production--Starring the Brilliant Actress

EMILY STEVENS In "THE SLACKER"

William Christy Cabanne's mighty drama of the day and hour. One of the most timely, vital and appropriate photodramas of popular appeal. A story that will stir the patriotism and love of country in the breast of all. Superb cast of Metro Stars and Elaborate Scenic Environment.

ADMISSION---Adults 18c War Tax 2c. Children 9c War Tax 1c.

TO BE SEEN IN "THE SLACKER"

Metro's Special Production de Luxe, a Patriotic and Film Masterpiece.

American descendants of all nations will find incidents of special importance to them in the "Slacker," Metro's forthcoming production de luxe starring the celebrated actress, Emily Stevens, and written and directed by William Christy Cabanne, to be seen at the Princess Thursday and Friday of this week. A representative from every race is shown on the screen, and then heads of all, grouped together, dissolve into the fabric of ing close in one great formidable armed mass. The picture changes quickly to a naval scene, showing America's battleships on the high seas. Next the German fleet within the Kiel canal is pictured, with the Allied fleet waiting patiently outside to engage it in action.

The historic events included in this great picture of patriotism are Paul Revere's ride, the wedding of the nation, when Gen. Grant and Robert E. Lee clasped hands, the martyrdom of Nathan Hale, the composing of "The Star-Spangled Banner," and momentous incidents in the careers of Washington, Lincoln and President Wilson.

NOTICE.

All Masons and all members of the Order of Eastern Star are most cordially and earnestly invited to attend the joint entertainment given by the Masonic Social and Study Society and the Auxiliary Society of the Order of Eastern Star, on Tuesday evening, Nov. 13, at 7 p. m. at the Masonic Hall. Come and enjoy yourselves. A good program has been arranged for the occasion.

Dr. J. L. Barker, of Pembroke, was elected First Vice President of the Kentucky State Medical Association at a meeting of the association held in Louisville last week. J. S. Lock, of Barbourville, was elected President.

RELIEF FROM SUGAR FAMINE

To Come by Release of Supplies Stored by Cuban Producers.

New York, Nov. 12.—Some relief from the sugar famine was promised last week by the sugar division of the National Food Administration, which announced that 10,000 tons—ten days' supply—would be placed on the market. This sugar has been in storage in warehouses from Cuban producers. It was said to-day that further releases of foreign-owned sugar would be made soon.

Nearly all the small grocery stores here have been without sugar for several days. In many of these stores the supplies of brown and pulverized sugar were exhausted weeks ago and stocks of loaf sugar have been drawn upon to meet the demand for granulated sugar.

VICTIM OF TYPHOID FEVER

Well Known Farmer Died at Jennie Stuart Hospital Sunday Night.

J. S. Anderson, a farmer who resides a few miles northeast of the city, died at the Jennie Stuart Hospital Sunday night of typhoid fever. He was taken ill about three weeks ago, but had been at the hospital only a week. Mr. Anderson was 34 years old. His wife and one child survive. The deceased was a nephew of the Reeder brothers, of this city. He was a member of the Methodist church. Funeral services will be held at the residence of Mr. A. J. Reeder, this city, this morning at 10 o'clock, conducted by Rev. Lewis Powell, and the interment will take place in Riverside cemetery.

PURELY PERSONAL

Mrs. Daniel H. Walker, of New Orleans, La., is visiting her cousin, Judge G. H. Champlin.

Mrs. W. A. Diuguid has returned from a four-weeks' visit to Mrs. T. G. Hiser, in Louisville.

Miss Agnes Flack has returned from Louisville, accompanied by Miss Alice Radford. They will be bridesmaids in the Winfree-Tandy wedding this week.

Mrs. L. N. Gregory and Miss Gussie Young, of South Christian, are visiting Mrs. S. W. Johnson at Erin, Tenn.

Lieut. Harry W. Ware of the 15th P. T. B. 159th Depot Brigade, who is helping to train the 30,000 men in the cantonment at Louisville, came down Saturday night to spend Sunday with his people, returning Sunday night.

Buried at Smith's Grove.

THE FORCE OF FRIENDLY THOUGHTS

Dodge Brothers business has just reached and passed another milestone in its history.

In less than three years approximately two hundred thousand Dodge Brothers Motor Cars have been placed in the hands of owners.

If this sale-record represented the appeal of a price, the total would not be particularly impressive.

The important thing is that the car is not thought of in terms of price, but in terms of value.

How often you hear the car spoken of, and how seldom the price.

It is the quality of thought that surrounds it which makes this success noteworthy.

Because people think well of these cars, it is impossible for Dodge Brothers to build enough of them.

Seldom has there been a finer example of the force of friendly thoughts.

It is an inspiration and an encouragement to build well--because the reward, in America, is so great and so sure.

With nothing but good will toward them in American homes--how could Dodge Brothers do less than they have done?

Practical Birth Encouragement.

A rich Russian distiller sometime ago decided to spend a considerable amount of his fortune in increasing the physique of his countrymen and countrywomen. He advertised for strong, healthy young couples to settle on his estate. He paid the marriage expenses for suitable applicants and gave them free grants of land. Then, when babies began to arrive, he settled annuities on them of fifty rubles each.

Eczema spreads rapidly; itching almost drives you mad. For quick relief, Doan's Ointment is well recommended. 60c at all stores.—Advertisement.

Salaries of Federal Judiciary.

In 1789, when the United States courts were organized, the chief justice of the Supreme court received $4,000 and the associate justices, $3,500 each. The district judges received from $1,000 to $1,800. These low salaries have been increased from time to time until now the chief justice receives $15,000 a year, the associate justices, $14,500, and district judges, $6,000 each.

Origin of Various Dogs.

The Russian borzoi and the Sicilian hound had their origin in the Cretan hound, which is still common in Crete, and it and its cousin, the Ithaca hound of the Balearic Islands, which came from the ancient Ethiopian hound, which was a domesticated wolf. The collie or shepherd dog seems to come down direct from a small wild dog of the paleolithic period.—C. R. Eastman in Museum Journal.

First Newspaper Woman.

It is said that the first newspaper woman was an American, Mrs. Anne Royall, who was not only the first woman journalist, but the first woman to own and edit a newspaper. It is also curious that she is said to have originated the idea of "interviews." She was born in Maryland in 1790, put her first printing press on Capitol Hill in Washington, D. C., and published a small weekly, first called the Washington Paul Pry and later the Huntress.

Curious Jewel Box.

A curious jewel box made of fossil ivory by the natives of Siberia is on exhibition at the Museum of Natural History in New York, says the Christian Herald. The sides and top are composed of flat pieces of ivory and are carefully fitted together, the corners being dovetailed. They have carved in them scenes of the north-land, the front side representing a hunter returning from the chase riding a reindeer. The box is made from the tusks of mammoths that have been buried for ages beneath the ice in Siberia. Some of these tusks weigh from 200 to 300 pounds. Elephants' tusks furnished the ivory for the Jews. Solomon made his throne of it.

"Nothin'," said Uncle Eben, "is as bad as it might be, specially a cold storage alg."

Postage Stamps.

The history of postage stamps begins with the issue made by Great Britain in 1840, under the administration of Sir Rowland Hill. Their successful use in Great Britain resulted in the adoption of stamps by Mexico, the English colony, by Brazil, France, Switzerland and the United States. The earliest shape of the postage stamp was practically that which is in use today. The triangular, diamond shaped, octagonal and square have been tried as experiments by different countries, but in nearly all cases return has been made to the rectangular form.

Embezzlement.

Embezzlement is a fraudulent appropriation of another's property by a person to whom it has been entrusted or into whose hands it has lawfully come. Embezzlement differs from larceny in that the original possession of the property was lawful or with the consent of the owner, while in larceny the criminal intent must have existed at the time of the taking. Embezzlement implies honest beginning with criminal afterthought.

Argumentative Woman.

The argumentative woman is a social blight and an enemy to her own charm, be she otherwise as attractive as it is possible for a body to be. Argument in itself is a dignified mental process—one absolute necessity for the world's intellectual development, but it ceases to be a thing desirable when it enters every-day verbal intercourse more than an exceedingly rare every so often. Plain common sense should tell us the reason why.—New York Evening Telegram.

Straw Used by Ancient Hebrews.

Both wheat and barley straw were used by the ancient Hebrews, chiefly as fodder for the horses, cattle and camels (Genesis 24:25; I Kings 4:28; Isaiah 11:7; 65:25). There is no intimation that straw was used for litter.

SEE HERE!*Do You Want Your Kidneys Experimented On?

Kidney troubles are getting more common every day. Government health bureau figures say deaths from this cause are 72 per cent more than 20 years ago.

Anybody who suffers constant backache, who feels blue, nervous and irritable; who has dizzy spells and headache should suspect kidney weakness. Overworked kidneys must have a rest. Take things easier; live more carefully. Take a good kidney remedy to build the kidneys up again.

But be sure to get Doan's Kidney Pills—the oldest, the most widely used, the best recommended of all kidney pills, now in use all over the civilized world. Don't experiment with your kidneys. Thousands have already tested Doan's. You have their experience to go by. Plenty of cases right here in Hopkinsville. Here is one:

ART IN OPERATING MACHINES

Alexander Bakshy Contends One Piece of Mechanism Requires as Much Skill as Other.

The contention that automatic mechanism can never attain the artistic requires sounder reasons than those which are usually put forward, Alexander Bakshy maintains in his book, "The Path of the Modern Russian State and Other Essays." He says:

"It is obvious that the whole argument stands or falls by the definition of 'mechanism.'"

"This, however, is so indeterminate that we see similar kinds of action, in one case styled mechanical, and in the other case highly individual. Who will doubt, for instance, that the action of an organ played at a concert is individual and that of a locomotive engine mechanical? (I pass over the controversial question of the piano-player.) And yet it cannot be disputed that the second requires as much skill and personal control as the first. Let it be noted the point of the argument is not whether their work is art or not, but whether it is mechanical or non-mechanical. I maintain that there is no real distinction between the one and the other, and that both can be made to serve artistic ends if properly used."

"SYNTHETIC MILK."

A member of an English society of medical officers of health claims to have discovered, after a lengthy period of careful experiment, a satisfactory substitute for cow's milk. He has produced a powder called "synthetic milk improver." Mixed with water and boiled, it is added to cow's milk in equal proportions, and the result is claimed to be a rich liquid scarcely distinguishable from new milk. The cost of the synthetic article is about one penny per pint.

THE RICHEST DOG.

The richest dog in the world is said to be Billy, belonging to an American mining magnate. Billy is a big dog, and on one occasion he was piloting his master and his mate to their cabin on the mountains, when the latter was so sure that a certain turning was the right one that he left Billy and his master to go their way and he took his, giving the dog a parting kick to show his contempt for his intelligence. But the dog was right, and presently conducted his master to the cabin, and then, in spite of the kick, set out to find the other man. He found him utterly lost and at his last gasp almost, and led him back. So grateful was he that he presented the dog, after he had 'struck it rich,' with a gold-studded collar, and opened a banking account in his name, which will only be disturbed to give him a fitting funeral.

MAKING SUCCESS WITH LARGE BUSINESS

ANY FARM NEEDS SILO AND GOOD BARN.

(By O. R. JOHNSON, Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station.)

A profitable farm business must be a good-sized business. A good-sized business does not always mean a large number of acres—although it usually does. By good-sized business is not meant farms of two or three thousand acres. A good-sized farm in Missouri need not be more than 400 acres. Some businesses on much smaller farms are big enough for satisfactory profits.

A man on a good-sized farm can make a profit more easily than a man on a small farm. He can employ men, horses, and tools more efficiently, can follow a good cropping system more easily, and can have more lines of work so that his risk of loss is less. A more regular supply of labor and better distribution of capital is possible. These are some of the reasons for the larger business.

Size of Business.

The number of acres operated is not the only measure of size of business. The man with too heavy a capital investment may think he has a large business when in reality it is very small. The investment of the average farm of a region is the safest guide for that community. A man with a large number of acres and not enough capital to operate them is much worse off than if he had fewer acres and enough capital to handle them efficiently. Every acre must be farmed enough, but not too much.

Another factor which may limit the size of business is the productivity of the land. The men on farms of average productivity and up to one-fifth more than average are the fortunate ones. The man with less than average yields or more than one-fifth better than average yields finds it harder to make a success of his business. With less than average yields he gets no profit from crop production; with more than one-fifth better than average yields he is usually paying more than the increased yield is worth to get that yield.

System of Farming.

Another factor of importance which limits size of business is the system of farming which the man is following. In extensive farming regions like most of Missouri a man can put too much labor on an acre of ground or he can put too little labor on that acre. A 200-acre farm may readily be no more efficient than a 100-acre farm because the man on the 200-acre farm does not farm the land, while the man on the 100-acre farm farms it right. The farming system which furnishes 2 to 2.3 days of productive labor per acre was found to be the best in the Johnson county, Missouri, region.

ATTENTION TO COTTON SEED

Big Waste of Transportation and Loss by Wear and Tear on Machinery in Handling Dirt.

(From the United States Department of Agriculture.)

An enormous amount of useless dirt and foreign matter annually is purchased and handled with cotton seed, according to investigations conducted by the United States department of agriculture. This trash wastes transportation, causes loss by wear on cleaning machinery, and results often in damaged seed and a lower quality of cotton seed products.

To save these wastes and losses producers, ginners, and oil mills are urged to take the following measures, which it is believed will be of mutual advantage and of benefit to the entire country.

Cotton producers will help by bringing the unginned cotton as dry and clean as possible to the gin. The ginners will aid by so equipping and adjusting his machinery as to make the seed as clean as possible, and by keeping foreign matter from getting into the seed after it has been separated. The oil-mill interests can encourage producer and ginner to market clean seed of good quality by paying a comparatively better price for good, clean, dry seed than is offered for poor, dirty, or damp products.

COURTESY ON COUNTRY ROAD

Teamsters and Automobile Drivers Should Cultivate Spirit of Going at Least Half Way.

There is a need of courtesy on the country road. This applies both to teamsters and to automobile drivers. Both should cultivate the spirit of give and take—of going at least half way.

It is sometimes very annoying to have to bring a car to a full stop or to have to go into low gear and run along the side of a deep turnpike to get past a wagon that could just as well have moved over to the other side and left plenty of room. On the other hand teamsters are often put to a good deal of inconvenience by being compelled to pull heavy loads out of the way to let machines pass—and many times this is not appreciated.

There is one positive danger which auto drivers could minimize by taking the trouble to dim their lights when meeting teams or other machines on narrow roads at night. Dazzling headlights have blinded many a driver before now, and have caused team or machine to pull over an embankment or into a ditch.

Let us promote both safety and general good feeling by cultivating courtesy on the country road.

FATTEN TURKEY FOR MARKET

Poultry Husbandman of Texas College Tells of Mistakes Made in Finishing Young Birds.

Some attention should be given to the condition of the birds when turkeys are marketed. Those who have had experience in finishing the birds know what it means to have them in prime condition. Prof. F. W. Kasmeler, poultry husbandman of the Texas A. & M. college, explains:

Many young turkeys are hurried to the market just about the time that they make the greatest gain. This is a losing practice for the grower. In spite of the fact that feed is high, the first five or six pounds of a turkey's weight are the most expensive to produce. It certainly is not good business to sell the young turkeys while they are still "pinny." Keep them a few weeks longer and feed them well.

This year turkey raisers will again be tempted to sell their early hatched turkeys and keep late hatched specimens for breeding purposes. This is a very serious mistake. Keep the early hatched turkeys and a few of the most vigorous early hatched toms for breeding next year.

Last spring turkey raisers were unable to supply the demand for eggs for hatching and breeding stock. The same condition will exist this year. Be prepared for it.

COTTONSEED MEAL FOR FEED

It Being So Highly Concentrated It Must Be Fed With Discretion—Ration for Cows.

While cottonseed meal is the cheapest cattle feed on the market, it is so concentrated that it must be fed with discretion. The animal can digest only so much of it; and, furthermore, feeding it to excess may be detrimental to the cow.

Six pounds of cottonseed meal may be considered the most that can be wisely fed a cow per day, and four pounds will generally be a much safer amount. What additional concentrates may be needed can consist of one or more grain products.

PEAVINE HAY EASILY CURED

By Making Stacks of Small Diameter Around Poles Vines Can Be Stacked Behind Mower.

Peavine hay is easily cured, either on racks or stacked around poles while still green. By making stacks of small diameter around poles, pea vines can be stacked right behind the mower. Handled in this way the hay has a bright green color, and practically all the leaves, the most nutritious part of the hay, is saved.

WAR TALKS

By UNCLE DAN

Number Six

Billie and Jimmie Will Take Military Training.

"I am mighty sorry, Uncle Dan, that this is your last night with us. Can't you stay longer? We boys are having a peach of a time," said Billie.

"Well, if you get more out of it in the way of pleasure than I," said Uncle Dan, "you are going some."

"Billie, I have been talking seriously with your father and mother about sending you to a military academy and they asked me to talk with you about it."

"Whoopee!" Billie screamed, like a wild Indian.

"Now, hold your horses," said Uncle Dan, "and listen to me. You know I sent my boy, Howard, to one of these schools for a year when he was about your age. He was narrow chested, stoop shouldered, rather loose jointed; he had the big head and needed discipline and physical development. He was growing fast and I wanted him to be strong physically."

"Say, Uncle Dan," said Billie, "I believe your description of Howard fits me pretty well, eh?"

"Well," said Uncle Dan, "to be frank I think it does; you need the same thing. Howard did not like it at first. I am told for a few weeks he had 'rough sledding,' but after he found that the only way was to obey orders, he caught the spirit of the institution and liked it. We did not see him for about six months, then he came home for a few days. We were astonished at his appearance. He had gained about 20 pounds in weight, his muscles were as hard as nails, he stood as straight as an arrow, he was courteous, considerate and manly. His awkwardness had disappeared. The change was wonderful and it was all to the good. Here is a photograph showing 'before and after taking,' and I am sure no patent medicine advertisement could beat it.

"Well, mother and I were delighted. That was ten years ago, and Howard says the year he spent at the military academy was the best year of his life."

"Now," said Uncle Dan, with great earnestness, "when such training does so much good, makes better citizens and at the same time fits a man to defend his country, why should not Uncle Sam furnish this training at the government's expense? The government has the right to call anyone to serve in case of war, and without training, a man is worth nothing as a soldier. Uncle Sam has splendid new training camps that will soon be available for the purpose, therefore, here is double reason why the Chamberlain bill for compulsory military training should be passed at once, so that every boy physically fit may have this training and not leave it for his parents to pay for. On account of the expense, not one boy in 50 can take the training now. I am glad that you can do so. These big crops and big prices, I find, make the farmers rather 'cocky,' and that the best is demanded by them."

Billie was up with the lark the next morning, more excited and enthusiastic than ever. He had a plan. He knew Jimmie owned a colt worth $100; that he would make almost another $100 on his potatoes if they turned out well, and that he had from his previous savings, bought a $100 Liberty bond. Billie's plan was to have Jimmie cash in and go with him. He was disappointed to find that Jimmie would still lack about $300 of having enough to see him through. His lip quivering, he said: "I'm mighty sorry to leave Jimmie."

Uncle Dan was silent a moment or two, then he asked Billie to go down to the orchard and get him some apples to eat on the train. While he was gone, it was arranged that Uncle Dan and Mr. and Mrs. Graham would advance the money necessary so that Jimmie could go. When Billie returned he was told about it. He ran to the 'phone and called Jimmie, saying: "Come on over, run just as fast as you can. I've got the greatest news you ever heard of."

POPULAR BREEDS OF SHEEP

Shropshire Combines in Fairly High Degree All Qualities Sought by American Breeders.

Sheep die easily sometimes, especially so for the man who is inexperienced with them. It may be said that the larger the breed the less hardiness they exhibit. Internal parasites kill more sheep than all other causes combined. Pneumonia, however, is quite common among the large English breeds.

The Merino is the hardest of all breeds, and the Southdown of all the English breeds. But the Shropshire is perhaps the most popular sheep in America today. It combines in a fairly high degree all the qualities that are sought in a sheep. However, there is a difference in the hardiness of individual sheep just as there is with men. Some families of men break down and die young as compared with others. Similarly, some families of sheep die more easily than others. Selection, breeding and care and management are also factors in determining the health and vigor of sheep.

ARE YOUR HOGS PROFITABLE?

Pregnant Brood Sows Do Well on Clover or Alfalfa Forage and Ear or Two of Corn Daily.

Clover was worth over $100 per acre in replacing corn in the hog ration in one test conducted at the Ohio experiment station, when corn was valued at $1.68 per bushel. Other forage crops proved almost as valuable. Are you cheapening pork production by the use of such crops? There is no cheaper feed up to a certain point. Pregnant brood sow will do well on clover or alfalfa forage and an ear or two of corn daily. Young pigs and shotes must have more grain, of course, but they relish some forage. Fence off a part of that clover or alfalfa field and give the hogs a chance at it if you have not already done so.

SHEEP RID FARM OF WEEDS

Also Return Fertility of Soil in Form of Manure—Graze With Cattle Very Nicely.

Roadsides, lanes and fence corners may be kept clean and tidy by a flock of sheep. Not only will sheep rid the fields of weeds and turn them into a marketable product, but they will return the fertility of the soil to the land in the form of manure. Sheep will graze with cattle nicely where grass is abundant, and will eat the plants the other stock leave.

Most farms have feed lots and yards which annually grow up to unsightly weeds. By sowing rape in these places and pasturing sheep on it, the appearance of the farm would be much improved and money would be made.

TREATMENT FOR WILD COLTS

Complete Directions Given for Getting Foot of Refractory Animal Into Position for Shoeing.

To raise a hind foot, put on a rope as on the front foot and draw the foot forward. To put a rope on the hind foot of a wild horse, tie up a front foot, have the assistant hold his hand over the eye on the same side as the foot to be lifted, or take the headstall in one hand, the tail in the other and whirl the horse until he becomes dizzy. While in this condition he may be handled with safety. Lift the foot forward two or three times and gentle it. As soon as the horse gives in carry the foot backward into a shoeing position and trim the hoof.

MINERAL MIXTURE FOR PIGS

Department of Agriculture Gives Formula for Animals on Pasture—Keep in Handy Place.

To supply mineral matter and a tonic for pigs on pasture the following mineral mixture is good, says the United States department of agriculture. It always should be accessible. Dissolve the coppers in hot water and sprinkle over the mixture: Copperas two pounds, slaked lime four pounds, wood ashes one bushel, sulphur four pounds, salt eight pounds, fine charcoal one bushel.

BOMB LAW IN EFFECT

Heavy Penalty For Having Explosives Without a License.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Any person in the United States found with explosives in his possession after Nov. 15, and who does not have a license issued by the Federal government showing the purpose for what the explosives are to be used, will be at once fined up to $5,000 or sent to prison for one year. If the circumstance warrant, the person may be fined $5,000 and in addition given the one year in prison.

This is the principal clause in a war measure passed by the last Congress which is now being put into effect by the Bureau of Mines, Department of the Interior, which bureau has been charged with its enforcement. Francis S. Peabody, of Chicago, a well known coal operator familiar with the use of explosives, large amounts of which are used in the coal mining industry, has been appointed by the Secretary of Interior Lane to act as assistant to the Director of the Bureau of Mines, Van H. Manning, in the enforcement of the law. Under the law, the Director of the bureau is empowered to outline the services of United States officers and all police officers of the states, including the city police forces, county sheriffs, deputies, constables and all officers in any way charged with police duties. The police of the cities have already been organized for this work, headed by a committee of chiefs of police in the big cities, of which Major R. W. Pullman, superintendent of police of Washington, D. C., is chairman. The police are not only to look after the enforcement of the law, but are also to make thorough investigations of all dynamite outrages and fires in factories and warehouses, and to make their report to the Director of the Bureau of the Mines.

Persons apprehended in plots to blow up factories and bridges will be turned over to the authorities for prosecution under federal or state laws. Most states have specially severe punishments for these crimes. New York has an extreme penalty of twenty-five years imprisonment for the placing of dynamite with intent to blow up property. The penalty provided in this Federal war measure is merely to cover the illegal possession of explosives.

The law provides that everyone who handles explosives must have a license. The manufacturer, the importer and exporter must have license issued by the Bureau of Mines in Washington. The seller of explosives and the purchaser of explosives must also have license, these to be issued generally by county clerks, or other local officers who are authorized to administer oaths. There will be at least one licensing officer in each county, and more agents will be designated if the county is sufficiently large to warrant it. If a state has laws providing for a system of licensing persons manufacturing, storing, selling or using explosives, the state officials authorized to issue such state license shall be designated as federal licensing agents; also city officials qualified to issue city explosives license will be given authority to issue federal license. A federal license will not relieve any person from securing license required under state laws and local ordinances.

In each state there will be appointed a state explosive inspector, who will represent the Bureau of Mines in the administration of the law within the state.

Only citizens of the United States or of countries friendly to the United States and the Allies may so obtain licenses.

Contractors, mining companies, quarrymen and others using large quantities of explosives, which are handled by employees, may issue explosives to their employees only through those employees holding a license, called a foreman's license.

The purchaser of dynamite, in obtaining a license, must state definitely what the explosive is to be used for and will be held accountable for its use as stated and the return of any explosives that may be left.

With the strict enforcement of this law, the Federal authorities hope to prevent explosives falling into the hands of evilly-disposed persons and to put a stop to all further dynamite plots.

CHANGE IN L. & N. TRAIN SERVICE.

Effective Monday, Nov. 12, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad will establish a new train running between Guthrie and Evansville, to be known as No. 90 Northbound and No. 91 Southbound. No. 90 will leave Guthrie 2:45 p. m., Hopkinsville 3:26 p. m., arriving at Evansville 6:30 p. m., and stopping at practically all intermediate stations. No. 91 will leave Evansville at 6:00 a. m., Hopkinsville 8:58 a. m., arriving at Guthrie 9:50 a. m., and stopping at practically all intermediate stations from Evansville to Guthrie.

Effective same date trains 94 and 95, known as the "Dixie Flyer," will stop only between Evansville and Guthrie at Henderson, Madisonville and Hokinville.

In 10 years Kentucky has produced 71,121,646 tons, Illinois 526,864,056 Indiana 151,917,265.

Coal in Henderson.

The Audubon Mining Co. at Henderson has made the following schedule of prices:

At the mine—Mine-run at 9 3/4 cents per bushel; lump, nut and egg 10 3/5 cents per bushel; pea and slack 8 3/5 cents per bushel. This makes $2.40 per ton for mine-run, $2.65 per ton for lump, egg and nut, and $2.15 per ton for pea and slack, when bought at the mine, which is the price actually fixed by the government.

For deliveries—Three cents a bushel is added, which, figured on the same basis of 30-bushel loads, the standard load in Henderson, makes the price per load as follows: Mine-run $3.78 per load, or 12 1/2 cents per bushel; lump, egg and nut $4.08 per load, or 13 3/5 cents per bushel; pea and slack $3.48 per load, or 11 3/5 cents per bushel.

It is evident from the new schedule of prices that the Audubon Mining Company has reached the conclusion that the government regulations do not permit any charges except the price at the mines as fixed by the government and the additional cost of having, which this company places at three cents, the actual price it pays teamsters.

HOPKINSVILLE CREDITORS ASSOCIATION.

E. L. NEFF, Pres.

W. C. KING, Representative, Headquarters Hotel Latham.

E. A. NOEL, Secy.-Treas.

The Creditors Association is an association for the protection of those who extend credit against imposition.

The object of this association is for the improvement of credit conditions, educating the slow pay and indifferent to be prompt in the payment of their obligations. The elimination of undesirable accounts of "The Dead Beat" and "Debt Dodger" class; also the tracing of "Skippers" and making credit easier and better for the deserving. It is a fact that many honest people, through misfortune, are unable to pay their bills promptly. This class usually explain their circumstances to their creditors and obtain the time necessary to meet their obligations. But there is another class, who by glib talk, profuse promises and dashing show, that make it their business to systematically "beat" their way through life. The Association has in their employ a staff of the most able bonded attorneys which possibly can be obtained. The Association makes it their business, when other means fail, to garnishee wages, obtain executions, advertise judgments, notes and accounts for sale.
